15

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Inadequate working capital in a small scale or an ancillary industrial undertaking caused serious and endemic problems affecting the health of such undertaking. It was, therefore, felt that prompt payments of money by buyers should be statutorily ensured and mandatory provisions for payment of interest on the outstanding money, in case of default, should be made. With a view to provide for and regulate the payment of interest on delayed payments to small scale and ancillary industrial undertakings and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto, a legislation titled as “The Interest on Delayed Payments to Small Scale and Ancillary Industrial Undertakings Act” was enacted in 1993. The provisions of the said Act made it mandatory for the buyer to pay to the Small Scale Industry promptly, failing which he is required to pay interest to the supplier.

2. However, the aforesaid Act did not improve the situation of delayed payments and the same was repealed by the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006 which provided for facilitating the promotion and development and enhancing the competitiveness of micro, small and medium enterprises and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. This Act made provision for liability for buyer to make payment to the supplier, being a micro or small enterprise and the National Small Industries Corporation, the Small Industries Development Corporation of a State or Union territory and any company, co-operative society, trust or a body, by whatever name called, registered or constituted under any law for the time being in force and engaged in selling goods produced by micro or small enterprises and rendering services which are provided by such enterprises referred to in clause (n) of section 2 of the said Act (hereafter referred to as micro or small enterprises).

3. The Central Government received complaints regarding delay in payment to the micro or small industries. However, the enactment of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006 also did not improve the situation of delayed payments to small scale industries. The Reserve Bank constituted a Study Group in January, 1998 under the Chairmanship of Shri C. S. Kalyansundaram, former Managing Director, State Bank of India for examining the feasibility and mechanics of starting factoring organisations in the country and making recommendations regarding its theory, constitution, organisational set-up, scope of activities and other related matters. The Committee had noted that inadequacy of working capital finance with its attendant liquidity problem has been one of the major stumbling blocks in the viable running of small scale industry units and recommended that factoring for small scale industries could be mutually beneficial to both factors and small scale industry units. Besides, the said Committee, various other Committees set-up for alleviating the problems of small scale industry units, by the Government and the Reserve Bank during the last decade [including the Prime Minister’s Task Force on Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (2010)] have also recommended development of factoring services for small scale industries through policy and legislative prescriptions to address the problem of liquidity for the micro or small industries.

4. In view of the above, the Central Government decided to enact a legislation relating to factoring services and introduce a Bill titled as “The Regulation of Factor (Assignment of Receivables) Bill, 2011”, to provide for and regulate the assignment of receivables by making provision for registration therefor and rights and obligations of parties to contract for assignment of receivables and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. Factoring service is one of the important mechanisms to address the issue of resources management for the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Sector. The Regulation of Factor (Assignment of Receivables) Bill, 2011, provides for a mechanism for assignment of receivables of the industry to a ‘factor’ and the payment of consideration by the ‘factor’ to the industrial unit.

5. The Regulation of Factor (Assignment of Receivables) Bill, 2011, inter alia, provides,—

(a) for the process of assignment of receivables due and payable to any assignor (being any enterprise or medium enterprise, micro enterprise or small enterprise as defined in clauses (e), (g), (h) and (m) of section 2 of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006, respectively engaged in any business activity) by any debtor, to any factor, being the assignee, by an agreement;

(b) that the debtor shall have the right to notice of assignment and till the notice is given, the assignee shall not be entitled to demand payment of the receivable from the debtor;

(c) that the liability of the debtor shall not be discharged unless he makes the payment due on an assigned receivable to the assignee;

(d) that the assignor would be the trustee of assignee for any payment received which is due on an assigned receivable;

(e) that if the assignor of receivables is a micro or small enterprise, the liability of the debtor to make payment on assigned receivables shall be subject to the provisions of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006 with regard to delayed payments of receivables;

(f) for regulation of the factoring business;
